GAMING ROOM RULES

VIDEO GAME ROOM RULES

1. No fighting, cheating, or swearing allowed. You will be asked to leave, if caught.
2. You are not allowed to change the volume on the televisions.
3. If you need to change a battery, tell a GM.
4. Absolutely no food or drink is allowed in the video game room.
5. Both systems are off-line. You cannot download content.
6. There are no save cards.
7. Please use a guest account (not nagsn xbox live) on the 360.
8. The room will be locked every night and opened every morning. Doors should open at 10am and will close at midnight.

GAME ROOM RULES

1. No swearing, fighting, or cheating is allowed. You will be asked to leave, if caught.
2. Games marked as prizes or placed on a shelf marked "prizes" are not to be opened.
3. You are free to pick any game not designated as a prize and play it in gaming. You may not take the game into another room or outside of sight of gaming.
4. Remember, these games belong to other people and they are being loaned. Please respect the games and return them in the condition they were in when you took them off the shelf.
5. Although the game room is in an area that's open 24 hours, gaming's hours are from 10am to midnight. Games will be securely stored overnight so please remember that gaming staff will be putting longer games away as the night progresses (You won't be allowed to start a Power Grid game at 10pm, but you could still play Dominion).
6. Although food and drink is allowed, there are some rules to be followed this year:
 - a) No open containers of drinks are allowed in gaming. No cans or cups. Containers with sealed lids are allowed in gaming.
 - b) Although food is allowed in gaming, you are not allowed to bring food from the con suite up to gaming.
 - c) Please note that gaming is in an area of the hotel that is considered "public." Please pick up after yourselves and avoid any spillage as carpet cleaning and/ or replacement costs are high.

FRIDAY

5pm - midnight Open gaming at its best. Come in and ask a GM to show you how to play a game or check out a game and play with friends.

7 - 9pm SJ Open Demo. Check out all the games from Steve Jackson Games. Find your way around Munchkin Pathfinder, sneak around the labyrinth of Illuminati, or eat the humans with Zombie Dice.

SATURDAY

10 - 5pm Game Designers Extravaganza! How'd you like to try a game before it goes on sale. Now's your chance. Come in and try a trio of fun games that are still in the playtest stage.

Choose from Cluster fight, Moonquake Escape: Lunar Eclipse, Toasted or Roasted, and more.

8 - 10pm SJ Open Demo. Check out all the games from Steve Jackson Games. Find your way around Munchkin Pathfinder, sneak around the labyrinth of Illuminati, or eat the humans with Zombie Dice.

SUNDAY

10 - 3pm Guru of the Game Room Tournament. 4 games in 5 hours. Dominion, DC Deck Building Game, Eminent Domain, and Innovation. Top 4 winners get to choose from the prize pool.

GAME ROOM HOURS

Friday 5pm - midnight

Saturday 10am - midnight

Sunday 10am - 3pm

PROGRAM START: FRI 5:00 PM

The Fine Art of Murder*Vincent O'Neil (M), Dana Cameron, Leigh Perry, Charlaïne Harris*

Burroughs · 50 minutes · Panel

What is it that fascinates us about murder mysteries? How do you create a captivating crime? Is it possible to make a satisfying whodunit or locked-room mystery in a setting where technology or magic eliminates too many constraints and presents the potential to do anything?

Would You Baptize an Extraterrestrial?Guy Consolmagno, Janice Gelb, James D. Macdonald

Carlton · 50 minutes · Dialog

When we finally meet the aliens, how will the encounter affect the Earth's religions? Does their sentience guarantee a soul capable of salvation? Is it likely that they will be creatures of faith? Will they adopt our creeds? Will we convert to theirs? Will they deflate old beliefs, or inspire new ones? How have SF writers handled these questions so far? What frontiers of faith have yet to be explored?

Boskone 101, Tour 1*Laurie Mann*

Galleria-Meetup Spot · 50 minutes · Docent Tour

For those who may be new to Boskone, our convention docent provides a nuts and bolts introduction to the convention as well as a tour around the facility.

Editing Your Fiction:Tips From the ProsBeth Meacham (M), Teresa Nielsen Hayden, Neil Clarke, Ginjer Buchanan*

Harbor I · 50 minutes · Panel

A discussion of how editing the manuscript can bring out the best in a story — even if it requires cutting or changing the characters and events you love most.

Bring Back My Favorite TV Show!Priscilla Olson (M), John Chu, Seanan McGuire, Mur Lafferty, Stephen P. Kelner

Harbor II · 50 minutes · Panel

From recently cancelled shows to long-gone favorites, which SF/F/H television programs deserve a second try at tubal triumph?

Writers on Writing: In the Mood*Mary Kay Kare (M), Jo Walton, Michael F. Flynn, Greer Gilman*

Harbor III · 50 minutes · Panel

One of the most elusive qualities a story may possess, mood is also one of the most lasting memories that certain stories evoke. How does a writer accomplish this effect? What are a writer's most important mood-making tools: Word choice? Pace? What the characters themselves feel? Voice? Setting? What works have been most successful at setting a mood and making it memorable?

Alien Artifacts*Michael Sharrow (M), Daniel M. Kimmel, Jill Shultz, Frank Wu, Jennifer Pelland*

Lewis · 50 minutes · Panel

Welcome to the wonderful world of alien artifacts! Marvel at treasures recovered from half a dozen worlds throughout the galaxy. Our panel of "expert" xenoarchaeologists will determine the nature, origin, and use (often unique, odd, bizarre, or extreme) of these ancient objects to the delight (and amusement) of our audience.

FRI 6:00 PMPaleofuturesElizabeth Bear (M), Bill Higgins, James Patrick Kelly, Beth Meacham*

Burroughs · 50 minutes · Panel

The new term “paleofuture” describes a future that never was — a prediction made in the past which hasn’t panned out and never will. Which foreseen futures have subsequent events rendered impossible? Which are plausible still? What histories, worlds, discoveries, and technologies could (or could not) yet come true? And for extra credit, what are our own predictions of things to come?

Rising Tides*Vincent Docherty (M), Tom Easton, Gary Ehrlich, Joan Slonczewski*

Carlton · 50 minutes · Panel

FEMA is releasing floodplain data soon. Interestingly, it looks like most of Boston will be underwater if climate change continues. This presents some splashy possibilities for scientists and authors writing in the “near future” space.

New To Filk? Start Here!Bill Roper (M), Roberta Rogow, Gary D. McGath

Douglass · 50 minutes · Filk

You’ve heard people having fun and singing with their friends all night. Want to get involved? This is your gateway drug.

OPEN

Galleria-DragonsLair · 50 minutes · Childrens

Classic Movie Monsters*Erin Underwood (M), Bob Eggleton, Daniel M. Kimmel, Paul Di Filippo, Mallory O'Meara*

Harbor I · 50 minutes · Dialog

Godzilla. The Blob. Dracula. The Creature from the Black Lagoon. The Mummy. The Wolfman. King Kong. These are just a few of the classic film monsters that continue to keep us coming back for more movie magic with each new remake and reboot. Why do these creatures make such compelling stories? What does it take to create a great movie monster? Why do we love them? Will we ever grow tired of these old creature features?

Bleeding Hearts*Darlene Marshall (M), Steve Miller, Nancy Holder, Leigh Perry*

Harbor II · 50 minutes · Panel

A Valentine’s Day panel about romance in science fiction, fantasy, and horror. What are some of our great love stories for the ages? What stories turned out to be tragedies — or worse? Panelists will discuss how love can turn a character’s world upside-down.

Blurred Lines:Collapsing Literary ClassificationsVincent O'Neil (M), Joshua Bilmes, Stacey Friedberg, Paul G. Tremblay*

Harbor III · 50 minutes · Panel

Speculative fiction authors write outside the box. Many don’t even see the box! We’ll discuss works that defy the boundaries once confining speculative fiction (SF/F/H/YA) — and that also break down the barriers between our genres and romances, mysteries, thrillers, mainstream fiction, or even nonfiction. While we’re at it, what other boundaries can our authors demolish?

FRI 6:00 PM continued

The Art of Writing Young Adult Fiction*Jack M. Haringa (M), Sarah Beth Durst, Anna Davis, Jane Yolen, Julia Rios*

Lewis · 50 minutes · Panel

How does today's publishing world define YA? Where do voice and narrator style fit? Are there taboo teen topics? Where does that line between teen and adult live? How do you make a teen character feel "real," with all of the requisite pimples and giggles — while still giving him/her the power to save the Universe...or to at least get through gym without being tortured by the class bully?

FRI 6:30 PM

Reading by Jennifer Pelland

Griffin · 25 minutes · Reading

FRI 7:00 PM

Future Fashion*Fran Wilde (M), Teresa Nielsen Hayden, Brianna Spacekat Wu, Elizabeth Bear*

Burroughs · 50 minutes · Panel

What will the well-dressed futurian be wearing 50 years from now? A hundred years? A thousand? What is clothing actually for? What SF works have presented interesting ideas about the clothing of the future? How has fashion infiltrated comics or brought comics styles out into the real world?

Riding the Light*Jordin T. Kare*

Carlton · 50 minutes · Solo Talk

Lasers have tremendous potential for propulsion and the transfer of energy via laser power beaming. This talk will explain the barriers that need to be surmounted for these uses to become common, and give some insight into how lasers might be utilized in the future.

Fannish Songs*Ellen Kranzer (M)*

Douglass · 50 minutes · Filk

Songs about fandom and fannishness

Origami

Galleria-DragonsLair · 50 minutes · Childrens

Reading by Lila Garrott

Griffin · 25 minutes · Reading

Just A Minute*Vincent Docherty (M), Seanan McGuire, Frank Wu, Ada Palmer, Bruce Coville*

Harbor I · 50 minutes · Game Show

Panelists have the daunting task of talking for 60 seconds on any subject the moderator springs on them — prattling away "without repetition, hesitation, or deviation." This hilarious high-pressure game show was a hit at several recent Worldcons.

Beat the Studio*Bob Devney (M), Steven Sawicki, Daniel M. Kimmel*

Harbor II · 50 minutes · Panel

The studios that make them really have no idea whether their movies will be hits or misses. Let's see if we fans can do better. We'll consider some science fiction, fantasy, and horror films scheduled for 2014 release, imagine what they might be like and what turns their plots might take, and predict with crazy confidence how well they'll do.

Sherlock Holmes on TV

Dana Cameron (M), Jennifer Pelland, Nancy Holder, Tony Lewis, Ginjer Buchanan

Harbor III · 50 minutes · Panel

Not only are two successful Sherlock Holmes shows (Sherlock and Elementary) currently running on TV, characters influenced by Holmes are numerous, ranging from House to Madame Vastra on Doctor Who. Why do Sherlockian characters work so well? Are there any Sherlockian failures out there? If so, what went wrong? What are the current incarnations of Sherlock Holmes and Doctor Watson doing right?

Cambridge Science Fiction Writers Reading

Lewis · 50 minutes · Reading

A rapid-fire reading by the members of the Cambridge Science Fiction Writers Workshop, featuring Steve Popkes, Alexander Jablovok, Sarah Smith, James L. Cambias, James Patrick Kelly, and F. Brett Cox.

FRI 7:30 PM

Reading by Sarah Beth Durst

Griffin · 25 minutes · Reading

FRI 8:00 PM

Good vs Evil: The Great Divide

Jack M. Haringa (M), Jeffrey A. Carver, Steve Miller, Steven Popkes

Burroughs · 50 minutes · Panel

Fantasy often incorporates pure goodness and pure evil, foregrounding them as serious character motivations or actually giving them bodily form. How does the battle of good and evil stay relevant in a world filled with shades of gray? What value does purity, for good or ill, lend to fantasy?

The Science of Hal Clement's Iceworld

Bill Higgins

Carlton · 50 minutes · Solo Talk

In Hal Clement's 1951 novel Iceworld, characters who breathe hot gaseous sulfur confront the mysteries of Earth, to them an unbelievably frigid planet. Among other things, the legendary master of hard SF foresaw robotic interplanetary exploration in a unique way. Join Bill Higgins in exploring the chemistry, physics, and astronomy behind the classic story.

Making Kids' Choice Art Show Awards

Galleria-DragonsLair · 50 minutes · Childrens

Reading by E. C. Ambrose (Elaine Isaak)

Griffin · 25 minutes · Reading

Why You Want to Go to Florence

Ada Palmer, Jo Walton

Harbor I · 50 minutes · Dialog

Join Jo Walton and Ada Palmer for a dialog on food and Italy/Florence, where Walton's new book My Real Children is largely set. They will share a survey of art, architecture, and food as well as of how travel and history can be used in fiction.

History of Science Fiction

Paul Di Filippo (M), Fred Lerner, Darrell Schweitzer, Tony Lewis, David G. Hartwell

Harbor II · 50 minutes · Panel

Science fiction reaches back to the time of the ancient Greeks. What stories and authors stand out as historic icons of the genre? What else is out there that could be a part of the genre, but hasn't traditionally fallen within the canon? What works help to define science fiction and its history? What's included? What's missing? What's yet to come?

FRI 8:00 PM continued

The New SF/F Thriller

James Patrick Kelly (M), Walter Jon Williams, Charles Stross, Scott Lynch, Vincent O'Neil Harbor III · 50 minutes · Panel

Here's one subgenre that's really taken hold these days. Examples: Neal Stephenson's Reamde, Max Barry's Lexicon, Wesley Chu's The Lives of Tao, Walter Jon Williams' This Is Not A Game, Charles Stross' "Laundry" series, and more. Why now? Do these appeal more to mainstream or to fannish audiences? What can an SF or fantasy thriller do that a vanilla thrillra can't? Who's doing it best?

FRI 8:30 PM

Reading by Jill Shultz

Griffin · 25 minutes · Reading

FRI 9:00 PM

Hugo Award Recommendations: Dramatic Presentations

Jim Mann (M), Melinda Snodgrass, Bob Devney, Daniel M. Kimmel

Burroughs · 50 minutes · Panel

What's the greatest stuff you saw last year? Join us to discuss 2013's best movies, TV shows, theatrical productions, and more in the worlds of science fiction, fantasy, and horror. If you're eligible to vote, by all means take notes — your Hugo Awards nominations ballot is due in London soon.

The New England SF/F/H Workshop Alumni Reading

Carlton · 50 minutes · Reading

Great Ghost Stories

Paul G. Tremblay (M), Theodora Goss, Jack M. Haringa, Lila Garrott, F. Brett Cox

Harbor I · 50 minutes · Panel

Out on the fringe, the living and the dead intersect in some fascinating fashion, bringing out the drama, tension, and atmosphere that have become hallmarks of a well-told tale of the supernatural. A shining example: Shirley Jackson's The Haunting of Hill House. However, not all ghost stories are created equal. Join us for an unsettling discussion of what makes a good ghost story great — and why some don't scare us for a second, while others haunt us still.

Exploring the Whedonverse

Stephen P. Kelner (M), Dana Cameron, Nancy Holder, Gillian Daniels, Erin Underwood

Harbor II · 50 minutes · Panel

From “Buffy the Vampire Slayer” to the new “Marvel’s Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D.,” Joss Whedon has had a hand in some of the most significant genre television programming ever. How have Joss and his Whedonverse shaped TV (including shows he didn't actually develop) and affected the wider genre community? What is the Whedon Effect? What would primetime television be like if Buffy never came to Sunnydale, or Serenity never lifted off? What was Dollhouse all about?

First Contact

Allen M. Steele (M), E. C. Ambrose, Walter Jon Williams, Michael Swanwick

Harbor III · 50 minutes · Panel

Stories of a first contact with alien creatures capture our imagination like nothing else. Will the aliens be kind benefactors? Will they enslave the human race? Or will they just wipe us out and take over the planet? What works have most effectively portrayed the ideas, fears, and hopes that might arise when an alien race comes calling?

The Fantasy and Science Fiction of John M. Ford

Jo Walton (M), Teresa Nielsen Hayden, Elizabeth Bear, John Chu, Beth Meacham

Lewis · 50 minutes · Panel

He wrote a prize-winning alternate history fantasy named The Dragon Waiting that doesn't have a dragon in it, a Star Trek book that's kind of a musical comedy, an SF juvenile about teens playing games on a train (on the Moon), and a Christmas card that won a World Fantasy Award. Neil Gaiman called him a “writers' writer.” Certainly John M. “Mike” Ford (1957-2006) delighted in defying expectations. But let's try to give you some hints about what to expect when you read his work.

FRI 9:30 PM

What (and How) to Read to Kids*Bruce Coville (M), Bill Roper, Stacey Friedberg, Debra Doyle*

Burroughs · 50 minutes · Panel

Reading aloud can be a memorable bonding experience — and big fun — for both adult and child. What genre stories work well when told to pre-readers? To 6-year olds? To 8-year-olds? We'll discuss book selection and vocal presentation tips for both novice and experienced read-out-louders.

Who Painted That? — Identifying Art*Mark L. Olson (M), Bob Eggleton, John Picacio, Joe Siclari*

Carlton · 50 minutes · Panel

One of the joys of SF art is seeing the wide range of styles and techniques used by various artists. When an expert looks at a piece, he or she can usually tell who painted it without checking the signature. Today we repeat a popular game from last year's Boskone: shown pictures of genre art from decades past and present, the panelists will identify them — and explain how they did that. Then we'll find out if they're correct.

Tie-In Novels:Writing Within the RulesNancy Holder (M), Craig Shaw Gardner, Ginjer Buchanan, Batya "The Toon" Wittenberg*

Harbor II · 50 minutes · Panel

Tie-in novels give fans another way to experience a story they love. These stories take place in a familiar world and feature our favorite characters, but are unique unto themselves and must adhere to a special set of rules. Join our panelists for a fun discussion about the art of writing original fiction within established and well-known worlds.

Stay Near the Fire: The New Solar System Science Fiction*Joan Slonczewski (M), Guy Consolmagno, Allen M. Steele, Charles Stross*

Harbor III · 50 minutes · Panel

Forget star-spanning empires. Recently, writers from Charles Stross to Kim Stanley Robinson, James S. A. Corey to Hannu Rajaniemi have instead created stories set in the future of our own solar system. What are the scientific reasons for this? Is there sufficient room for our imaginations in staying (relatively) close to home? Who's writing the best stuff about it?

Building a Better Anthology*James Patrick Kelly (M), Ian Randal Strock, Patrick Nielsen Hayden, Leigh Perry*

Lewis · 50 minutes · Panel

Will Fusion Power Always Be 50 Years Away?

Jeff Hecht

Carlton · 50 minutes · Solo Talk

“An experimental fusion-power plant or two will already exist in 2014.” So Isaac Asimov predicted in 1964. But so far: not so much. Let’s discuss the checkered history of fusion energy research, the rationale for continued skepticism, and current programs in magnetic confinement fusion and inertial confinement (laser) fusion. Bottom line: is there fusion in our future or what?

Navigating and Understanding Literary Contracts

Joshua Bilmes

Galleria-Discussion Group · 50 minutes · Special Interest Group

What is a restrictive contract clause? How do you negotiate a fair anti-competitive clause, especially with publishers cracking down on short story publications based in story worlds established in book-length works that fall under the terms of your contract? What is a warranty clause? Can publishers really prohibit authors from working on anything other than the work listed in their contracts until all those projects are completed? What other potential landmines should authors know about when reading or signing contracts? Join agent Joshua Bilmes for a discussion of these topics and more.

World War I and the Literature It Inspired

Tim Szczesuil (M), Myke Cole, Tom Shippey, Michael F. Flynn, James D. Macdonald

Harbor II · 50 minutes · Panel

This year marks the 100th anniversary of the start of the First World War. How did the war affect literature, including SF and fantasy? What topics and stories have come out of it? Panelists discuss not only the history of WWI, but also the literature inspired by it — including alternate histories that explore what might have gone differently.

Killer Plagues

Joan Slonczewski (M), Jill Shultz, Seanan McGuire, LJ Cohen, Michael Swanwick

Harbor III · 50 minutes · Panel

A panel discussion about colds and viruses that don't turn people into zombies, but are just as deadly. What effect does science have on creating, curing, and tracking the viruses of today and those that may develop in the future? When the big civilization-killer comes, what can you expect when it hits? What symptoms should you be obsessively checking yourself out for? Will hand sanitizer help?

Finish It! Completing Your Work

Jeanne Cavelos (M), Jeffrey A. Carver, Felicitas Ivey, Fran Wilde, Debra Doyle

Lewis · 50 minutes · Panel

Here you are with two half-completed novels, a handful of unfinished short stories, and a pile of great ideas gathering dust. Then there's work, life, family, and cons. How do you maintain momentum with so many distractions? Panelists share their experiences as well as strategies to help keep you on track toward finishing the projects that only end when the manuscript is sent out!

There is no magic formula to elicit an acceptance letter, but a solid application is a good place to start. Join representatives from various writing programs and learn how to present the best of what you have to offer as a student.

The Future of Art and Artists in SF and Fantasy

John Picacio (M), Greg Manchess, Bob Eggleton, David Palumbo

Carlton · 50 minutes · Panel

As the publishing industry changes, what does that mean for book art — and for artists who make a living in SF/F? How might creativity be enhanced with the emergence of digital media? What untapped opportunities could benefit freelance artists and art lovers? And what challenges does this new regime bring? Join our panelists to get a look at the big picture.

Urban Fantasy in Transition

Leigh Perry (M), Christopher Golden, Melinda Snodgrass, Mur Lafferty, Max Gladstone

Harbor III · 50 minutes · Panel

Urban fantasy has a long history within fantasy literature, but it's certainly gained new prominence recently. How has the definition changed over time? What influences have helped to shape urban fantasy? How far back into the literary past does urban fantasy reach? How might it evolve in the future?

Writers on Writing: Character Versus Characterization

Jeffrey A. Carver (M), Sarah Beth Durst, Steve Miller, Greer Gilman, Steven Sawicki

Lewis · 50 minutes · Panel

The success of any story relies upon its characters. But writers can get confused between establishing a character and characterization. What's observable? What's hidden? What do we see on the page, and what do we feel when reading about this character as a whole? Writers discuss ways to develop characters more deeply, and how characterization can either get in the way or be used successfully.

SAT 1:00 PM

The Future of Judaism

Janice Gelb (M), Fred Lerner, Merav Hoffman, Daniel P. Dern, Daniel M. Kimmel

Burroughs · 50 minutes · Panel

The Pew Research Center's recent "Portrait of Jewish Americans" has generated much discussion about the future of the Jewish community. What do the trends portend? How will our increased mobility and exposure to other cultures and opinions on the Internet shape that future? And as Mel Brooks might say, what about Jews in Space?

Interview With Guest of Honor Seanan McGuire

Elizabeth Bear (M), Seanan McGuire
Harbor I · 50 minutes · Interview

A good time shall be had by all as Hugo and Sturgeon Award-winning writer Elizabeth Bear interviews Boskone's Guest of Honor, Seanan McGuire. In addition to previously winning two Hugo Awards and the Campbell Award, in 2013 Seanan became the only person ever to appear five times on the same Hugo ballot. She is the author of the October Daye and InCryptid urban fantasies, plus several other works. Seanan also writes under the pseudonym "Mira Grant," whose sf/horror novel Feed was named one of Publishers Weekly's Best Books of 2010.

Alternate Voices

Stephen P. Kelner (M), Scott H. Andrews, Walter Jon Williams, Michael Swanwick
Harbor II · 50 minutes · Panel

Stories told through documents, letters, reports, or other nontraditional voices provide opportunities for narrative dissonance because of what is not (and cannot be) said. Panelists discuss the possibilities of these varied voices.

Gender Roles in Doctor Who

Laurie Mann (M), LJ Cohen, Carrie Cuinn, Julia Rios, Max Gladstone
Harbor III · 50 minutes · Panel

The characters (Companions, foes, etc.) in TV's Dr. Who have included men, women, and "other." How have they all conformed to "expected" gender conventions? Discuss notable breaks in tradition, giving examples (this will not be graded.) Note: you may also include Captain Jack and the Doctor's Wife.

Telling Tales of "The Tell-Tale Heart"

Theodora Goss (M), Darrell Schweitzer, Vincent O'Neil, Mary Kay Kare, Faye Ringel Lewis · 50 minutes · Panel

Edgar Allan Poe was a master craftsman and storyteller. Panelists read their favorite parts from his short story "The Tell-Tale Heart" and share what it is about those sections that speak to them, as well as discussing Poe's use of rhythm, imagery, characterization, etc. How does Poe do what he does with fiction?

Interview with Science Speaker Bill Higgins*Guy Consolmagno (M), Bill Higgins*

Harbor I · 50 minutes · Interview

Join us for a lively discussion as former Special Guest Guy Consolmagno interviews Boskone's current Hal Clement Science Speaker, Bill Higgins. Bill is a radiation safety physicist at Fermi National Accelerator Laboratory near Chicago. As a longtime member of fandom, he writes and speaks about the crossroads where science, history, and science fiction meet. Other topics that may come up include spaceflight, astronomy, physics, and maybe even some weird aviation.

The Evolution of a Hero

Jeffrey A. Carver (M), Jennifer Pelland, Craig Shaw Gardner, Debra Doyle, Greer Gilman
Harbor II · 50 minutes · Panel

Heroes aren't born. They're made through a combination of choices and circumstances that mold them both internally as well as externally into someone powerful enough to represent a challenge to the story's antagonist. Has the once well-defined transition from zero to hero changed with the introduction of modern social structures? What about modern female characters who chafe against preconceived notions of who a hero is, what it means to be a hero, and how a hero is made? Are there differences between the growth of a hero for men and women? And what does this all mean for the antagonist?

Food in Fiction

Steven Popkes (M), Jill Shultz, Ian Randal Strock, Elizabeth Bear

Harbor III · 50 minutes · Panel

Every living creature depends upon food for nourishment and survival; how does that dependence come across in literature? Panelists discuss examples of how authors have used food and the culinary arts within science fiction, fantasy, and horror to reveal complex clues about cultures, characters, ethnicities, social standing, and so much more.

Poetry in Science Fiction, Fantasy & Horror

Jane Yolen (M), LJ Cohen, Merav Hoffman, Jo Walton, F. Brett Cox

Lewis · 50 minutes · Panel

The purposes of poetry are myriad: commemorating love or loss, capturing oral histories, imparting lessons, making political declarations, telling stories. And poetry included genre elements long before the coinage of such terms as science fiction, fantasy, and horror. Join panelists for a lively discussion of their favorite poems and poets, as they touch on why genre themes continue to ignite the poetic imagination.

Capes, Canes, and Superhero Comics

Daniel P. Dern (M), Christopher Golden, Dana Cameron, Carrie Cuinn, Brianna Spacekat Wu
Burroughs · 50 minutes · Panel

How we treat our superheroes and villains provides a unique view of our own culture's beliefs and values regarding ability and disability. Panelists explore the complementary and conflicting nature of superpowers and disabilities. What do the cane bearers and cape wearers from comics reveal about ourselves, our health concerns, and our treatment of those with permanent disabilities and chronic conditions?

The Light Fantastic*Erin Underwood (M), Mary Kay Kare, Bob Kuhn, Tom Shippey, Sarah Beth Durst*

Carlton · 50 minutes · Panel

Much critical attention is always devoted to dark fantasy: the more miserably hopeless the outcome, the more accolades. Why else is 1984 considered a masterpiece? But how about the happy stuff? After all, isn't fantasy supposed to help us escape from a society where Big Brother is watching every move? Let's consider the best of serious and humorous fantasy with positive conclusions. Great writing; interesting, complex, and evolving characters; beautifully described and consistent world-building; well-plotted stories — check, check, check, check, check.

Interview with Special Guest Ginjer Buchanan

Leigh Perry (M), Ginjer Buchanan
Harbor I · 50 minutes · Interview

Let's talk text. Mystery and urban fantasy writer/editor Leigh Perry (aka Toni Kelner) interviews Boskone's Special Guest Ginjer Buchanan. Early in her career, Ginjer earned a living as a social worker while doing freelance editorial work on the side. After taking an editing job at Berkley, she worked her way up to her current influential position as editor-in-chief at Ace/Roc Books. A TV buff, Ginjer has also written pop culture essays, and edited and written tie-in novels. Come hear her opinions on editing, writing, publishing, the people she's known, the work she's shaped, and how it all involves way too many meetings.

What Is Storytelling For?

*Debra Doyle (M), Jo Walton, Ada Palmer,
Patrick Nielsen Hayden, Michael Swanwick*
Harbor II · 50 minutes · Panel

Why tell stories? What is the purpose of narrative fiction in culture? Are the world and characters a massive counterfactual conditional and the narrative an extended consequence ... i.e., if things were thus, then this might happen? Or are we just telling lies?

The Potential of 3D Printing

Mark L. Olson (M), Jeff Hecht, Jordin T. Kare, Joan Slonczewski

Harbor III · 50 minutes · Panel

It seems certain that with the continuing development and cost-effectiveness of three-dimensional printing of a growing number of objects, manufacturing on an industrial and even a personal level will change. Can we print a moon base? What about human tissue or replacement organs? Printed plagues? How will 3D printing mold all our futures?

Former Guest Artist John Picacio interviews Boskone's current Guest Artist David Palumbo. As a freelance illustrator, David has provided genre-themed artwork for everything from book covers and collectible card games to advertisements and concept designs. He has received multiple honors for his work, including three Spectrum medals and a Chesley Award, and has shown in galleries from New York to Paris. Art enthusiasts: this is a panel not to be missed!

SUN 10:00 AM continued

My Favorite (or Worst) Story and Why I Wrote It

Leigh Perry (M), Paul G. Tremblay, Dana Cameron, Charlaine Harris

Harbor III · 50 minutes · Panel

Certain short stories hold a special place in the author's heart, no matter how they are perceived by the audience. Maybe it was an award-winner, gave birth to a series, earned a place in a notable anthology — or turned out to be a complete failure. Each panelist will discuss a single published short story and share its genesis. What challenges arose when writing it? Has it led to new opportunities, fan interactions, or other surprises? What makes it special?

Boskone Book Club

Bob Kuhn (M)

Lewis · 50 minutes · Special Interest Group

Announcing the Boskone Book Club!

Purpose: to let con-goers get together and discuss one noteworthy work at length.

This time it's Parasite by Mira Grant (the nom de plume our Guest of Honor, Seanan McGuire, uses for horror). Boskone's own Bob Kuhn will lead the discussion. To participate, please read the book and come ready with your observations.

The Dark Universe

Mark L. Olson (M), Bill Higgins, Elizabeth Bear, Guy Consolmagno

Burroughs · 50 minutes · Panel

What are dark matter and dark energy? What is this dark universe that coexists alongside the cosmos we can see and feel? How apropos is George Lucas' description of The Force? (Obi-Wan Kenobi speaks of "[A]n energy field created by all living things. It surrounds us, penetrates us, and binds the galaxy together.") Is there something in this idea that might reveal mysteries that keep eluding us — and do we really want to find out?

The Art of the Electronic Game

Fran Wilde (M), Frank Wu, Brianna Spacekat Wu

Carlton · 50 minutes · Panel

Pong and Pac-Man might still have their place, but the infusion of art into the gaming experience has evolved far beyond sliders and bouncing balls. From MYST to The Elder Scrolls to World of Warcraft, visual elements have taken on new prominence and importance. How does art affect gaming and game culture? How has visual design influenced and been influenced by the worlds within electronic games? See examples at BuzzFeed: <http://tinyurl.com/m8qkup5>

A Literary Wonderland

Theodora Goss (M), Seanan McGuire, Jane Yolen, Sarah Beth Durst, Craig Shaw Gardner
Harbor I · 50 minutes · Panel

With approximately 25 film adaptations and countless derivative works seen since its 1865 publication, the influence of Alice in Wonderland upon literature, especially fantasy and young adult literature, cannot be understated. What makes this work so special? Why do new generations of readers keep coming back to it? Panelists discuss the curious characters and their curiouiser stories that make Wonderland so special, as well as other works it has inspired.

Having Your Work Adapted to Film

Melinda Snodgrass (M), Charlaine Harris, Christopher Golden, Steven Sawicki
Harbor II · 50 minutes · Panel

Most writers say they'd love to see their stories at the movies or on TV. At least, until it actually happens. What surprises, good or bad, can crop up during the adaptation process? How much influence does our writer have in developing the script? How do fans of the original react to the transition? Join our panelists for an inside look at the path from page to screen.

50+ Years of Doctor Who: The Good, the Bad, and the Ugly

Jim Mann (M), Dana Cameron, John Chu, LJ Cohen, Tony Lewis
Harbor III · 50 minutes · Panel

How has this seminal series evolved since that first BBC show on November 23, 1963? What are its highlights, lowlights, and iconic scenes?

SUN 11:00 AM continued

Ezines, Fanzines, and Blogs, Oh My!Steve Davidson (M), E. C. Ambrose, Steve Miller, Joe Siclari, Mallory O'Meara

Lewis · 50 minutes · Panel

Fanzines, ezines, and blogs come and go, and return again in new and different forms. What is it about fanzines that gives them such resiliency when so many readerships remain in perpetual flux? What are the advantages of these forms? What do their readers — and writers — get out of each?

Reboots:New Chances for Old Stories?Steve Miller (M), Shahid Mahmud, Beth Meacham, Alexander Jablovkov, Ellen Asher*

Burroughs · 50 minutes · Panel

Are do-overs only for television programs, movies, and comics, or can we hit the dreaded reboot button on written fiction as well? Which classic stories should be preserved untouched in SF/F/H's hallowed halls? Which might gain fresh life — and new readers — from judicious technological or social updating? Once you start changing things, how far should you go?

Evolving Toward the Future*Steven Popkes (M), Priscilla Olson, Jeff Hecht, Jill Shultz, Walter Hunt*

Carlton · 50 minutes · Panel

What is the future of Homo sapiens? What will humanity be like in 100 years? A thousand years? Ten thousand years? (Assuming we last that long.) How will we adapt to our changing environment? Will we practice genetic modification (and if so, what kind) on ourselves as well?

Filk: Fandom Within Fandom*Bill Roper (M), Merav Hoffman, Roberta Rogow*

Douglass · 50 minutes · Panel

Filk is a fandom within fandom, and a microcosm of fandom at large. What is filk's place in the larger fannish community? How does filk relate to fandom-at-large, and fandom-at-large to filk?

Interview with NESFA Press Guest Jane Yolen*Bruce Coville (M), Jane Yolen*

Harbor I · 50 minutes · Interview

Young adult and children's writer Bruce Coville interviews NESFA Press Guest Jane Yolen on how to remain viable as an author over a long career. Jane's books, stories, and poems have won the Caldecott Medal, two Nebula Awards, the World Fantasy Award, the Golden Kite Award, and the World Fantasy Association's Lifetime Achievement Award, among many others. She's a long-time favorite at Boskone too; learn why when you listen to this warm and witty conversation.

Cyber Futures*Paul Di Filippo (M), Michael F. Flynn, Charles Stross, Myke Cole, Edie Stern*

Harbor II · 50 minutes · Panel

Smartphone implants, nerve-controlled mechanical limbs, chips to help boost your learning curve ... It all sounds like SF, but these scientific advances are well underway. The question is: how much more cyber can our future get? Orwellian video rooms and Scalzian BrainPals? Full-fledged A.I. integrated with our wetware? At what point do we begin to chip away at our humanity — and when does (should) it stop?

Future Fantasy and the Teen Protagonist*Erin Underwood (M), Nancy Holder, Stacey Friedberg, Anna Davis*

Harbor III · 50 minutes · Panel

Edgar Rice Burroughs once used the phrase "future fantasy." Could this term find fresh usefulness today, for instance to describe developments in young adult (YA) literature, where we see a growing mix of fantastic elements? What works might qualify as future fantasy? Could blending the scientific with the fantastic lead to further innovations in fiction — or in science itself?

Against a Dark Background: Looking Back at Iain M. Banks*Bob Devney (M), Mark L. Olson, Vincent Docherty, Gillian Daniels, Patrick Nielsen Hayden*

Lewis · 50 minutes · Panel

Scottish novelist Iain M. Banks (1954-2013) wrote brilliantly for both SF and mainstream fans, and was named one of the top 50 authors in postwar Britain by The Times of London. What do we make of his troubled viewpoint characters? His fondness for set pieces, rants, bleak smiles, and nasty shocks? His portrayals of sex, tech, morality, art, violence, and death? What sets his Jeeves-like Minds and drones apart from other writers' robots? Aren't his ship names just the coolest thing?

Mary Sue or Just Joe Hero?

Julia Rios (M), Teresa Nielsen Hayden, Jennifer Pelland, Stacey Friedberg, Bill Roper
Harbor I · 50 minutes · Panel

Who or what is “Mary Sue”? Panelists explain the term’s origin, meaning, and wider implications. Why has its use become so popular? What’s the difference between a Mary Sue and just a strong female character? Are there male Mary Sues? If we eradicated Mary Sueism, how many heroes or heroines would science fiction and fantasy have left?

Economics In Science Fiction and Fantasy

Paul Di Filippo (M), Charles Stross, Walter Jon Williams, Tom Easton

Harbor II · 50 minutes · Panel

“Economist” may have become an insult since the (widely unforeseen) crash of 2008, but doesn’t any SF or fantasy world require some kind of an economy? Can the “dismal science” make a fun story? Could fusion power ever be free? What are the economic implications of robots and zombies, or dark lords, evil empires, and vampires?

Wicked Good Villains!

Daniel P. Dern (M), Myke Cole, Darlene Marshall, Scott Lynch

Harbor III · 50 minutes · Panel

A look at the awesome antagonists who make their stories come alive. What makes a good bad guy or girl? From Maleficent to Sauron, magic-wielding villains have been a staple of the fantasy tradition. But what makes them tick? Why do we find them so compelling? And when do they cross over the wicked good line to join the best villains in fantasy literature?

Amazon's Impact on Publishing

Beth Meacham (M), Joshua Bilmes, Ian Randal Strock, Shahid Mahmud

Lewis · 50 minutes · Panel

On issues from price setting and self-publishing to marketing, reviews, and declining mass market paperbacks, the orbits of writers, publishers, and even readers all get perturbed by Amazon — the massiest star in the Internet system. And now, the prospect of drones dropping off our tomes (and toilet paper). What's next? Let's discuss the Amazon Effect, and how it impacts our worlds.

From Browncoats to Red Shirts

Steven Popkes (M), Walter H. Hunt, Melinda Snodgrass, Debra Doyle

Burroughs · 50 minutes · Panel

"Millions of voices suddenly cried out in terror, and were suddenly silenced." SF can be cavalier about the death of away-team expendables or the faceless multitudes of Alderaan. But lately, storytellers are starting to finish off our favorites. Cheap, hateful trick — or welcome return to reality? What are the benefits (and dangers) of a story where no one, not even your best-loved character, is ever truly safe?

Creativity: The Seven Deadly Myths

Stephen P. Kelner

Carlton · 50 minutes · Solo Talk

Creativity is often described in the same terms as magic — the muse, being struck, getting inspired, etc. But contrary to what people think, creativity is inherent in the human animal, and considerable neuropsychological research points to a simple definition of creativity. That doesn't stop people from getting tangled in popular myths that can derail effective productivity, however. Fortunately, many of these myths are entirely explicable and avoidable.

Finding Your Voice as an Artist

David Palumbo

Harbor I · 50 minutes · Solo Talk

Boskone's Official Artist David Palumbo discusses the intimidating journey of discovering your artistic voice. What methods can be used to help an artist set their work apart in an ever increasing pool of talent? Where does the line fall between inspiration and imitation? When do you follow your own path and what part does it play in the business side of art?

Writers on Writing: Sex Versus Romance

Darlene Marshall (M), Nancy Holder, Carrie Cuinn, Anna Davis

Harbor II · 50 minutes · Panel

Authors share ideas and experiences about writing scenes that are erotic as compared to scenes that are romantic. Which is harder? Which is more fun to write? Does your protagonist's gender or preference make a difference? How do you accommodate audiences of different ages or sexual orientations? Is romance just sex in soft focus?

Game of Thrones: What Happens Next?

Bob Devney, Priscilla Olson

Harbor III · 50 minutes · Panel

Okay, we really don't have any inside information either...but we do have our favorite theories. Come share yours with an opinionated gang of your fellow Game of Thrones fanatics, as we predict what will be coming on TV and in the final books in the series. (Note — the unsullied should expect spoilers...)

Understanding Fan Culture

Bill Roper, Steve Davidson, Patrick Nielsen Hayden, Brianna Spacekat Wu, Janice Gelb Lewis · 50 minutes · Panel

What is fandom? If you consider yourself part of it, how would you describe it? Is there anything about it that makes it particularly appealing? How has it changed? And what do you think people from outside the community (especially those trying to break in) most need to know about it? How can we better understand what it means to be a fan in the 21st century and beyond?
